FLOWERS FOR THE DEAD

Annual Decoration of Soldiers' Graves.

TRIBUTES OF LOVE AND PEACE

Rapidly Decreasing Ranks Willingly Respond to the Muffled Drum.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—An unusual feature of Decoration Day here was a participation in the exercises of seventeen officers from the Russian flagship Dimitri Domskoi and her consort Ryuda and five officers from the Austrian corvette Frudsberg.

After the decoration of the graves at Monument cemetery the foreign guests were driven to Lincoln monument, where ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker delivered an eulogistic address. From there they were taken to Laurel Hill cemetery where they witnessed impressive services over the grave of General Meade.

REMEMBERED LAFAYETTE.

PARIS, May 30.—About 500 persons, largely Americans, were present today at the decoration of the tomb of Marquis De Lafayette, in honor of his services to the cause of American independence.

Members of Lafayette's family arrived at the cemetery in landaus sent by Colonel Adams, representing Lafayette Post of the G.A.R. of New York. As Colonel Adams placed the wreaths and baskets of flowers on the tomb he delivered an eloquent tribute to the memory of Lafayette.

Hon. James B. Eustis, American ambassador, who was present, made an emotional speech in which he referred to the sacrifices of Lafayette in behalf of a people to whom he was an entire stranger.

Francois de Courcene, great-grandson of Marquis De Lafayette, made a reply in behalf of the family.

A distinguished company of Americans participated in the ceremonies.

AT GRANT'S TOMB.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Decoration Day was observed with the usual parade, and the line of march was crowded with patriotic and enthusiastic spectators. Many thousand people attended Memorial service at the tomb of General Grant. It was tastefully decorated by members of U. S. Grant Post No. 327, and elaborate floral offerings were sent by Mrs. Grant, the Loyal Legion, President Cleveland, the association of the Sons of Veterans, the Chinese legation and General Meade Post of Philadelphia.

The oration at the tomb was delivered by ex-Governor Foraker of Ohio, who reviewed the principal incidents in the military career of General Grant, and in conclusion said:

"As years pass by the pride of Americans and America and her institutions will grow stronger an l feelings of gratitude to those who saved us will constantly increase and, notwithstanding all efforts to the contrary, it will stand in history that in that great struggle the side of the Union was right and the other side was the wrong side—not a little right, nor half way right; not a little wrong, nor half way wrong, but absolutely and everlastingly right, and absolutely and everlastingly wrong."

The benediction was pronounced by Chaplain Rev. Mason Gallagher, and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired by the United States warship Miantonomah, which was lying in the North river near the tomb.

AT THE CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, May 30. — Decoration Day opened with beautiful weather, although heavy rains yesterday made the grounds very damp. Early processions began at the G.A.R. headquarters, and at noon programs at the different cemeteries were under full headway.

The largest crowd was at the National cemetery at Arlington, where the most elaborate program was carried out.

After honoring the 1400 dead heroes the immense audience gathered in the amphitheater, where the program of music and addresses was gone through with. The orator of the day was Hon. W. E. Simonds.

At the Soldiers' Home cemetery the veterans took a prominent part in the ceremonies.

WERE THEY COWARDS?

CHICAGO, May 30.—Memorial day exercises at the art institute tonight were rendered sensational by an exchange of opinions on the pension question between ex-Pension Commissioner General John C. Black and Major Warner, past grand commander of the G.A.R.

Warner, in touching upon the pension question in his speech, said that men who were friends of the soldier and who enacted the pension law could be relied upon to deal justly with pension matters, and it belonged to the friends of the soldiers alone to remedy the evils which have crept into the pension system.

When General Black's turn to speak came he said the pension rolls are polluted with the names of cowards, deserters and impostors, and no true soldier of '61 and '65 would object to a measure calculated to remove the disgrace.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

The Infanta placed a wreath of flowers on Grant's tomb yesterday.

Mrs. Marie Nevins-Blaine and Dr. W. T. Bull were married yesterday.

The President has gone to Hog Island, in Virginia, to recuperate until Saturday.

Graduating day at the Annapolis naval academy was participated in by a large crowd.

At Chicago yesterday M. Nelson, in a handicap race, made twelve miles on a bike in 55½ minutes.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis has gone to Richmond to attend the services at the reinterment of Davis' body.

Walter Foster broke the coast bicycle record yesterday by riding a mile in 2.28 1-5, and took the laurels from D. L. Burke of Los Angeles.

Twelve young noblemen have been arrested in Roje, Istria, for having conspired to separate Trieste from Austria and annex it to Italy.

Gored by a Bull.

VISALIA, May 30.—Mrs. Robert Ogden, living three miles south of this city, was badly gored by a bull today. Three of her ribs were broken.

CROP BULLETIN.

Reports From Different Parts of the District.

Central California Crop Bulletin, No. 9, for the week ending Monday, May 29th:

Fresno—Haying and harvesting are in progress, with about an average grain crop. The weather of the week has been most favorable for the ripening of grain and the curing of hay.

While some dropping from the vines is reported, the crop is so heavy that a loss of 10 or 20 per cent of the blossom would be an advantage to the remaining.

The first crop of strawberries are about done, and blackberries are coming in, but of poor quality as yet.

New potatoes are plentiful and of good quality.

The highest temperature for the week was 91, lowest 47. The maximum wind velocity was thirty miles per hour on the 24th.

Easton—The weather has been beneficial to grapes; young vines have dropped somewhat, but they can be spared. The south side of heavily loaded old have many stems and few berries, while the other sides are loaded with berries. The outlook is most favorable. There are complaints from some quarters of pears dropping from trees.

Reedley—The weather has been all that could be desired; our vines are in full bloom, with prospects of a great crop. Our wheat will be a good average crop, and Reedley will go on record as having the most wheat of any place in the San Joaquin valley.

Pixley—Vines and fruits are looking well, and people are elated over the fine grain prospects; the harvest begins today.

Los Banos—The weather has been favorable for fruits and ripening grain. Header and harvesters are starting in full force. Indications are that we will have grasshoppers in great numbers this season.

Fowler—Everything looking fine, and good crops of grain assured; vines are loaded and fruits looking well, although short crop.

No other report in.

JOHN R. WILLIAMS, Director.

MR. PIKE EXPLAINS.

FRESNO STILL REMAINS THE RAISIN CENTER.

A Stenographer's Error Gave Hanford a Distinction that Was Not Earned.

CHICAGO, May 25.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN.—Your issue containing communication made by Alexander Gordon is now for the first time before me, and it is due both to Mr. Gordon and all of the Fresno county raisin growers that I make myself somewhat clearer as to my position.

In the first place, as a packer I am heart and soul in favor of the lines laid down by the Raisin Growers' Association, and of which I signed and propose to live to to the letter. My reputation justifies me to say that whatever I sign or give my sanction to I live up to heartily and honestly. As to the selling of raisins, I shall strictly adhere to the prices that may be made by the executive committee of the State Growers' Association; that is understood and implied. With these facts before you further explanation on those points is unnecessary.

All of us who are in the business of distributing California products have our way of marketing. My opinion has been all the way through, and this opinion was more than made strong by my conversation with members of the executive committee of the Raisin Growers' Association, that the impression we made with the buyers throughout the United States was that we were determined this year to sell our raisins and not allow foreign packers to come in as they did last year. Nothing impresses the eastern merchant more than the fact that he understands, first, that we in California recognize the fact that prices be made consistently with legitimate requirement, and when he is impressed that way it goes a great way towards having his good will and his order.

If the impression is made throughout the United States that we in California are going to market our raisins properly, that impression is a good one and also a profitable one, and I, as one of the distributors, in making that honest impression think that I should be free from censure.

That was the impression I desired to make in my circular of May 3d, and if my expression was so worded as to make a wrong impression to the grower I am heartily sorry for it, but such was not the case, and as to Hanford, that sentence should have read this way: "Hanford is recognized as being the center of one of the finest raisin districts in the state." It was simply a stenographer's error in the phraseology and I, leaving for the east, in the rush of matters in connection with my departure, overlooked this proper wording. It goes without saying that whatever I can do for Fresno in the advancement of her interests will be done heartily and consistently.

CHARLES W. PIKE.

Said to Be Better Than Morphine.

Mention is made of codeine sulphate as an extremely prompt sedative in affections of the respiratory tract, possessing an advantage over morphine in that it does not check the secretions, nor does it lead to a habit, nor has it disagreeable after effects, and it will alleviate pain. The dose varies from one-eighth to one-half, and, exceptionally, one grain, given in pill or in solution, frequently in sirup of wild cherry.

The official alkaloid is rarely used, the sulphate being preferred for the purpose. If administered in water, an insoluble residue is sometimes found, which, on examination, proves to be the alkaloid codeine, found in codeine sulphate from the excessive heat employed in concentration of the solution for crystallization.—New York Tribune.

A WOMAN WITH A GUN

Creates a Stir at the County Jail.

DISARMED AND IMPRISONED

Edna Maloney Wants to Get Into Jail to Shoot M. C. Boyd.

About 1.30 yesterday afternoon a young woman clad in black appeared at jail and excitedly informed Deputy Sheriff Collier that a woman was coming to the jail for the purpose of killing M. C. Boyd, and asked the officers to look out for her.

A few minutes after she had departed a hack drove up to the jail and a woman, who is known in the purlieus of Chinatown as Edna Maloney, applied at the wicket for admission. She asked if she could see Charlie Boyd.

The jailer told her that she could, and opened the door to the jail corridor. She stepped in and the door was locked behind her. Before she was aware of what was occurring Jailer Connelly snatched a pistol from its place of concealment in the bosom of her dress.

She was at once taken to the woman's department of the jail and questioned as to her purpose in coming into the jail and her reason for carrying concealed weapons. They obtained but little information beyond the fact that she is possessed of a desire to exterminate the race of Boyd from the earth.

The pistol with which she proposed to inaugurate her campaign is a double action one of Harrington & Richardson make, 38 calibre and silver plated. It was in excellent condition with all chambers loaded and was a wicked and dangerous looking weapon.

At the time the officers were engaged in questioning their prisoner up stairs, Billy Myers, who drove the cab to the jail, came in and ran square up against Boyd. He changed color and became confused and stammeringly asked Boyd if he could do anything for him down town. Boyd told him that he could not and he passed out of the jail along with some other persons who were leaving.

When seen down town Myers admitted that he drove the cab up to the jail with Edna Maloney, and as soon as she left it drove the hack back to the stand on J street. He stated that he was not the cab driver, but drove up as an accommodation for the regular driver, who was taking his dinner at a restaurant at the time.

He denied that he was in the jail at all, or knew what the woman went there for. At the time he was in the jail it is said that he kept one hand in his pocket, but if he carried arms he had no chance to use them. The officers are of the opinion that he was fully aware of the purpose for which the woman came to the jail before he started with her.

Edna Maloney is a well known denizen of Chinatown, where she has resided for some years. In his lifetime she had Jack Maloney, whom Boyd shot three weeks ago, for her protector. Maloney died, and the woman is said to have sworn vengeance against Boyd on that account.

Later in the afternoon, it is said, a charge of threatened offense was preferred and soon thereafter an order was received from Justice of the Peace Austin to release her as she had given bail and she was turned out. She did not pack off her artillery, however.

The episode has served to impress one thing on the public mind quite strongly and that is that the strict surveillance kept up by the sheriff's officers is warranted. Had looser methods prevailed there might have been a tragedy in the jail today.

Boyd when interviewed stated that he had not been exposed in any manner so that she could have shot at him. When he had heard what was up he went out into the corridor and ran up face to face with Myers who turned pale and seemed very much excited. He said there were no intimate relations between him and Myers which would warrant him coming to the jail as he did and offering him assistance. He took the matter coolly, saying that the officers were taking good care to see that he was not molested in any way.

A Pleasant Affair.

A very social gathering took place at the house of J. Y. Beveridge in Scandinavian colony last evening. The occasion was given in honor of James Beveridge and wife of Glasgow, Scotland, father and mother of J. Y. and George Beveridge of this county.

Dancing, song and music was the entertainment of the evening, and an excellent spread of good things was served. There were present Colonel Trevelin, W. H. Hadkins, Mrs. Marks, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. J. E. Baker, Miss G. Minto, G. H. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fortune, Judge and Mrs. W. D. Crichton, Miss Carrie Stevens, H. Barnes, Miss Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Metzler, A. E. Woy, A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Gardner, M. Y. Dion, Mrs. Spence, David Spence, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lindsay, J. and Walter Blackwell, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fergusson, Mrs. W. H. Mackenzie, A. Carey, W. Leburn, G. N. and Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. H. S. Muneagle.

Mr. Beveridge Sr. departs for Scotland on Thursday.

A Knife on Its Travels.

A huge knife, said to be over 100 years old and resembling an ancient hay cutter, was presented to the postmaster at Bangor, Me., just after the election. It was labeled "Adlai's Ax." Across the blade in black letters were the words, "The melancholy days have come." This was a grim joke to play on a Republican postmaster, but he concluded to make the best of it. He tagged it and started it on a journey across the continent. At last accounts it was at Marquette, Mich., all covered with tags and the comments each messenger had added as the Democratic guillotine passed over his route.—Exchange.

THERE was no picnicking in Fresno yesterday. Decoration Day was observed with appropriate exercises only.

THE Infanta is recovering from indisposition caused by the New York ball. Even royalty's stomach turns against some things.

THAT $2.50 cut in the rates to the World's Fair is a big inducement. By taking a large family a man would save enough to pay for a night's lodging.

LAST Sunday's San Francisco Call was one of the most meritorious special editions from a literary standpoint ever issued on the coast. The Call is now a first-class newspaper.

IF the trusts continue in their present weak and wobbly condition the smashing operation will be one of the easiest on the program when Grover gets his congressional mill going again.

FRESNO will soon be as famous for fine peaches as she is for her raisins. Her peach crop is increasing every year, and the quality is first class. Apricots and nectarines are also staple products, but peaches are taking the lead.

ALL the liars in California have not been upon the witness stand in the Fresno courts, if it does look that way. One or two were up at Sacramento telling about a Chinese attempt to blow up the city.—Tulare Register.

Those Sacramento liars are bungling amateurs, though.

THE authorities at Visalia have requested the Salvation Army to quit beating a bass drum. Visalians do not like to be disturbed by noisy religious demonstrations while they sit on the curbstones and tell how they would capture the train robbers.

NOW THAT it is decided to keep the World's Fair open on Sunday some people will confidently expect a cyclone to come along and scoop the sinful show into Lake Michigan. If it does so, it is to be hoped that those robbing restaurants will be twisted all out of shape and dropped into the deepest water.

IT is stated that, in view of the recent bank failures, the President will shortly issue a proclamation which will serve the double purpose of calling an extra session and restoring public confidence. Let her be proclaimed by all means. Public confidence is one of the things needed just now, and when Grover can give it to us by opening his mouth and making a few prophetic remarks, those remarks should be forthcoming without any unnecessary delay.

THE June number of the Arena is probably the largest magazine of the kind ever published. It contains 164 pages, every page of which is filled by the contributions of the ablest review writers of the day. There is something in it to interest every thinking man or woman, no difference in what channel their taste may run, for the contents are as varied as they are able. This number marks the beginning of the eighth volume of this popular monthly.

IN another column will be found a brief explanation of some of the principles and methods involved in the Torrens' land act which controls in land transfers in Australia and several other divisions of the English colonial domain. As the legislature of California has provided for a commission to examine into the workings of the system and report to the next legislature with the view of adopting it in place of our own present system, it is worth the attention of business men at this time.

IT is an encouraging sign that there is no diminution in the observance of Decoration Day as the years go by. Gratitude is one of the most exalted of human virtues, and this generation owes a debt of gratitude to the brave men who laid down their lives that the Union might live, which finds one means of expression in the simple and appropriate rites of yesterday's national holiday. It is also well that, with the flight of time, there is less of sectional feeling and more of the spirit of sympathy and comradeship which belongs of right to a united country.

THE Call, which is zealously advocating the building of the Stockton and Fresno road, says in its issue of yesterday: "A railroad from Stockton to Bakersfield would practically give the valley, a third transcontinental line. Such a road would connect the valley with the steamers of the North American Navigation Company, which will always remain independent of any railroad combination that may be formed. The North American Company in conjunction with the Bakersfield line will fix freight rates on all articles which steamers may carry. The Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific may combine, but the combination will be subject to the rates established by the independent company."

THE Examiner expresses the opinion that the Geary law will be enforced on this coast, and gives these reasons for its opinion: "Some time ago the Examiner remarked that if the President undertook to enter upon a policy of nullification he would have to fill the local offices with eastern carpet-baggers to carry it out. Collector Phelps has begun to make good our prediction. There are seven Chinamen now in jail without certificates, and he is going to make an attempt to deport them under the Geary law. If this effort be vigorously carried out it can only have one result. We have no Lacombes on the bench in California Before long the law will be in full operation on this coast, where it is most needed, and the east can keep its highbinders and opium fiends without further objection on our part.

Mr. Phelps can afford to be independent since he is so soon to sever his official relations with the government. But if he can put the Geary act in good working operation before he turns his office over to his successor, we do not think that Mr. Wise will fail to keep it at work. Nor do we imagine that Mr. Cleveland will venture to remove a subordinate for obeying the law, however ready he may be to disobey it himself.

When fanaticism takes hold of a man all human considerations give way. A fanatic would be willing to turn this country into a Russian despotism for the sake of advancing his fad. Joseph Cook and his fellow Sabbatarians have telegraphed to the President urging him to tear up the constitution and send troops to keep the gates of the World's Fair closed on Sunday. It is just such a spirit that we have to deal with on the Chinese question. The Chinophiles do not reason; they shriek. Happily this is a government of laws, and though prejudice and folly may make officials sometimes forget their duty, the constitution and statutes enacted under its authority remain. The man who, in America, sets himself up as greater than the law, be he constable or president, will sooner or later be crushed beneath it."

BALLAD OF AN OLD MAID.

She heard one saying, "I wonder why
That pretty old maid was never wed."
And she turned aside, with a dewy eye,
And sat with her hand to her bended head.
"If they only knew," her sad heart said,
And her pleading thought searched the universe through
Again for a form that long ago fled,
The gallant form of a boy in blue.

Again were the soldiers marching by,
With eager zeal in their measured tread,
The brave flag brightening land and sky
With glorious light from its rich folds shed.
Again the blast of the bugle led
Her heart where blood was the grasses' dew,
And lying low on a hero's bed
The gallant form of a boy in blue.

No wedding chimes from the bells on high,
But ever through all the years instead
A toll prolonging the mingled cry
Of woe and triumph that battle bred.
And her heart on no other love was fed,
But ever through all the years was true
To him who fell where the field was red,
The gallant form of a boy in blue.

ENVOY.

Prince, who art young, when war times sped,
Was many a fatal shot that flew,
And many a maiden mourned her dead,
The gallant form of a boy in blue.

Pimples

The old idea of 40 years ago was that facial eruptions were due to a "blood humor," for which they gave potash. Thus all the old sarsaparillas contain potash, a nauseating mineral, that instead of decreasing, actually creates more eruptions. You have noticed this when taking other Sarsaparillas than Joy's. It is however now known that the stomach, the blood creating power, is the seat of all vitiating or cleansing operations. A stomach clogged by indigestion or constipation, vitiates the blood, result pimples. A clean stomach and healthful digestion purifies it and they disappear. Thus Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is compounded after the modern idea to regulate the bowels and stimulate the digestion. The effect is immediate and satisfactory. A short testimonial to contrast the action of the potash Sarsaparillas and Joy's modern vegetable preparation. Mrs. C. D. Stuart, of 430 Hayes St., S. F., writes: "I have for years had indigestion. I tried a popular Sarsaparilla but it actually caused more pimples to break out on my face. Hearing that Joy's was a later preparation and acted differently I tried it, and the pimples immediately disappeared."

DECORATION DAY.

How It Was Observed in Fresno Yesterday.

COMRADE G. W. BURT'S FUNERAL

Memorial Services in the Episcopal Church, and Literary Exercises in the Adventist.

It is very seldom that the members of the Grand Army of the Republic are called upon to bury a comrade on Decoration Day, but this phenomenon happened in Fresno yesterday. G. W. Burt of Atlanta Post No. 92, was the comrade for whom the last rites were performed by his sorrowing survivors. He had been sick for many a long and weary month and when the end came it was almost welcome.

The members of Atlanta Post under command of Henry Russell, post commander, marched from Nichols' hall to the late residence of the deceased on the corner of Calaveras and M streets, where the funeral services were conducted.

They then escorted the body to the cemetery and held the memorial services over his grave, it being the custom of the Grand Army to hold the services over the grave of the last comrade who died.

A profusion of flowers was brought out by the comrades and by the ladies of the Grand Army and the Woman's Relief Corps, and these were placed upon the graves of the following deceased comrades:

H. Budge, J. W. Gavin, D. V. Colwell, W. R. Collins, G. H. Ewing, G. W. Goudy, Amos Hussey, H. H. Pugh, J. F. Wharton, D. C. Davison, William Huntington, J. Pierce, W. Hill, Gus Anderson, D. H. Parcell, D. C. Duncan, G. W. Laton, Captain Ewing, F. D. McGuire, John Fletcher, W. Hutchinson, C. Merrimn and Rev. G. Potter.

The decorating committee were A. N. Redfield and W. Brookman. The grave of Uncle Ned King, a veteran of the Mexican war, was decorated by Mrs. Newton.

After the memorial services, which were conducted by Post Commander Henry Russell and his assistants according to the Grand Army ritual, the firing squad discharged their rifles over the grave of Comrade Burt.

The graves of four Grand Army veterans at Oleander were decorated by Mrs. Hatch.

Comrade Redfield drove the commissary wagon and dispensed iced drinks to the thirsty veterans, for the day was warm, 92 in the shade according to the weather bureau, and too hot in the sun to count.

THE LITERARY EXERCISES.

The Army held its literary exercises in the Adventists' church at 3 p.m. They assembled with the ladies of the Grand Army and the Woman's Relief Corps at the headquarters in Edgerly hall and marched from there to the church.

The veterans looked natural in their blue clothes and brass buttons, just as if they had been born in them. The church was well filled, and the pulpit and platform were profusely decorated with flowers.

Post Commander Russell made a brief speech of welcome to the comrades and friends, after which he introduced Lydia Warren Roberts, who sang "Nearer My God to Thee" in her usual effective manner.

Miss Daisy Sharp followed with a patriotic recitation. It was difficult to say which had the greater effect upon the audience, her beauty or her elocution.

Lydia Warren Roberts followed with the hymn, "America," which was deservedly encored. But in her closing selection, "The Star Spangled Banner," she surpassed her previous efforts, and carried the old soldiers with her.

The Memorial Address was delivered by J. L. Gilbert, the orator of the day.

He began by saying that the Veterans met on these annual occasions without any spirit of personal pride or exultation; without any desire to crown themselves or to uncrown others, for the true American soldier, when the army of the union was dissolved, went to his home and took with him whatever of trophies and glories and exaltation he had received and laid them at the feet of a grateful people.

The speaker next referred to some of the salient features of the civil war. Every one of Abraham Lincoln's great calls for troops was accompanied by a patriotic song peculiarly adopted to it. The first call was for 75,000 men, it being believed that that number would be sufficient to put down the rebellion. The next call was for 83,000 soldiers and they went with the song, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." In 1863, when President Lincoln issued a call for 300,000 men, they responded and kept time to the strains, "We Are Coming, Father Abraham, 300,000 More."

Later in the same year there were two other calls in quick succession, and that song was changed to, "We Are Coming, Father Abraham, 600,000 More."

Something like a million and a quarter of men were enlisted in the Union armies of the north, about one-half of whom were left on the field of battle or carried out from the hospitals, or went home maimed and crippled.

The benefits derived by the organizations of the old soldiers were next dwelt upon. By these organizations they were better enabled to support the weak and aid one another, for if any one deserves righteous treatment the veterans most certainly do.

These memorial exercises were also good lessons for the rising generation, that if in future life they should be called upon to stand on the bloody field of strife in defense of their country, and should fall as many of the veterans fell before them, they may be assured that their memory will also be treasured.

The war had accomplished great results. It had set free 4,000,000 men and had cast aside the doctrine of state's rights, and today the people of the United States stand as one nation, under one flag, instead of in a confederation of states.

The speaker paid a tribute of praise to the Women's Relief Corps, and he said the time would come when the mothers and the grandmothers of the nation will be enabled to walk up to the polls, and will have a say as to the manner of laws they will have for their children.

This sentiment was received with applause.

The exercises were concluded with "The Star Spangled Banner" by Mrs. Roberts, the audience joining in the chorus.

The militia infantry companies and the artillery company, together with the fire department and a detachment of police paraded with the Grand Army in the morning and presented a very attractive appearance. It surprised the spectators to see so well filled and so complete a procession on such short notice. The fire boys looked well, and their steamers and other apparatus were as bright as new gold, and proved that considerable elbow grease had been expended on them.

On Sunday evening the Grand Army memorial services were held in St. James' Episcopal church. An excellent sermon was preached by Rector Lucas, who is a veteran himself.

LAW AND ORDER.

The Duty of Citizens in the Present Crisis.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN.—In all matters pertaining to the public health or morals every honest person should manifest a lively interest. It is not enough that the power to abate a nuisance or correct an evil be delegated to the constabulary of a community. Every good citizen is directly interested in the upbuilding of the community in which he lives, morally and otherwise.

Not only should he insist on the strict and rigorous enforcement of the law, but should take a personal interest in aiding the officers in every way possible in ferreting out crime and punishing criminals. He should constitute himself a detective to the extent of ever being on the alert; should promptly report all facts of a criminal or suspicious nature to the proper officers. Only by such methods and a concert of action on the part of good citizens and entire sympathy and co-operation with officers of the law can we ever hope to correct existing evils or bring to punishment desperate criminals who have practically defied the law and defeated justice. Evil persons must be made to fear and dread the power of the law, which can never be done until the moral element asserts itself in the manner we have indicated. Had this been done before the condition of affairs that exists today, and has existed for some time, would not be.

That a strict enforcement of the law cannot be had, and sure punishment to guilty offenders follow, except by and through such concert of action as above pointed out is evident from the fact that no small proportion of our population is in some degree in sympathy with such element. This is evidenced in a degree by the large attendance of idle crowds at the trials of noted criminals and the large per cent of the assemblage that is ever ready to seize upon the flimsiest pretext to condemn the officers and defend the accused. Nothing but the positive statements of witnesses of occult knowledge of crime is evidence in their eyes. This class has wielded its power and influence in every way possible in the obstruction of the officers in the discharge of their duties, while the honest and substantial citizen has in a measure remained quiescent and many times shirked responsibility in this direction. There never has been a time when the honest and law-abiding citizen could be of more service to the officers than now. By prompt and energetic action on the part of all good men we may hope to accomplish much in the direction of reform and the re-establishment of law and order in our midst.

LAW AND ORDER.

FROM THE FAIR.

WHAT JOHN L. BOYD SAW RECENTLY IN CHICAGO.

Nothing Said About the Fresno Exhibit—A Raisin Bear Would be a Good Thing.

John L. Boyd returned to this city on Monday night after an extended visit through the eastern states. He can entertain his friends with varied and extensive accounts of his adventures since leaving here in March.

He attended the opening of the World's Fair and served one month as a Columbian guard on the grounds, consequently he had ample opportunity for observation. The exposition is an immense affair and will be much more so when all the exhibits are completed and in place, which will not be for a month yet.

None of the foreign exhibits had been opened regularly to the public when he left. The exhibit in the California state building was not complete, but in the Horticultural building Los Angeles had a pyramid of oranges nine feet in height that was attracting a great deal of attention. There is also a liberty bell in oranges.

Fresno should by all means have a raisin bear to compete with the prune horse from Santa Clara.

The electric feature bids fair to be the grandest of the big show. The Esquimaux are quiet; the Zulus are the most hideous, but the Turks surpass anything for brazen assurance in selling their wares.

Mr. Boyd says, in order to see everything one must spend a solid week on the grounds, exclusive of the time spent in exploring the great city. The gates are open from 8 a.m. till 10 p.m. It has been estimated that the admissions to foreign exhibits and sideshows of every description will foot up $15, not including that charged at the gate. The use of all toilet rooms must be paid for, and they will soon charge for drinking water.

The people of Chicago, Mr. Boyd says, realize that a World's Fair does not come every year, and are making hay while the sun shines. No available room can be had for less than $1.50 per day. An expressman wanted $1.50 for taking his trunk from the fair grounds to the depot, for which an ordinary transfer company would charge more than 50 cents. Mr. Boyd entered a mild remonstrance, and received the comforting assurance, "World's Fair rates, you know." Finally an expressman, who happened to be going that way anyhow, took it for $1.

Leaving Chicago, Mr. Boyd visited all points of interest in the east. He climbed fifty flights of stairs, each ten feet in height, to get to the top of Washington monument (being too late for the elevator), and was particularly impressed with the seat of the government. Tamales are unknown in the east; New Yorkers think that Chicago is in the extreme west, all beyond it being abandoned to prairie dogs and roving herds of buffalo.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Meeting of Citizens to Arrange for Its Celebration.

A citizens' meeting was held on the Hughes' hotel last night for the purpose of making arrangements for the proper celebration of the coming Fourth of July in this city.

Remarks were made by Dr. W. T. Maupin, Daniel Canty, W. D. Grady and others on the necessity for a proper celebration of the day.

It was stated that the militia were going to Stockton on that day principally for the purpose of securing the selection of Fresno as the site for the ten days' encampment which will be held this year. It was decided to hold literary exercises in the court house square and to give an open air band concert, and an exhibition of fireworks in the evening.

A committee was appointed to canvass the city for subscriptions. It is estimated that $2000 will be required for a proper celebration of the day.

Although it is not claimed that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures every ill to which flesh is heir, yet, as a matter of fact, it comes nearer doing this than any other medicine ever compounded. In purifying the blood, it removes the source of nearly all disorders of the human system.*

THE LAND TITLES LAW

A State Commission Provided For.

HOW THE TORRENS ACT WORKS

The Australian System to Be Investigated and Reported Upon.

Chapter 104 of the laws passed at the last session of the legislature provides for the appointment of a commission to investigate and report upon the practical workings of the Torrens Land Title act of Australia.

The chapter provides for the appointment of five commissioners to examine into the merits of the act, and report thereon at the next session. Who the commissioners are is a matter of small moment. Enough to say that it requires men experienced in all the ins and outs of land titles, and with a clear conception of all the liens, trusts and contingent interests involved in real estate ownership.

Had this commission been appointed for some useless purpose, such as the Forestry, or the Mining Bureaus, the taxpayer would have been called upon to unburden his purse to pay for the junketings of those persons, whose only excuse for living is that they are just competent, and are by nature adapted to fill just such useless and worthless offices.

But when there is a commission created which requires the exercise of the grey matter of a highly intelligent and well trained brain to promote something of great value to the whole people of the state, the legislative butterchains appropriate the insignificant sum of $500 to defray the expenses of the commission.

THE TORRENS ACT.

The object of this commission is a good one. The Torrens act is a good one. The purposes which it serves are all good, intelligent, beneficial and progressive. The act itself arose out of the business demands and emergencies of progressive modern civilization. The whole system can be summed up in a sentence. It substitutes title by registration for title by deed.

Under the present system deeds constitute title. No matter how many, the title must be traced back step by step to the original patent from the United States or Mexican grant. Abstracts become voluminous and every link in the long chain of title must be tested. Every transaction, no matter how trivial or insignificant, adds another link that must be examined and tested by a trained lawyer. The lawyer must be paid; the abstract office must be paid; the notary and recorder must be paid. Lives are wasted in the useless and senseless work of recording deeds and other instruments affecting titles to real estate and in comparing these instruments with these copies recorded in large unwieldy volumes. Then houses are built to store these in. In New York city today these volumes run into the thousands and an abstract of title to a piece of property in that city takes months of hard labor and close examination at rests that are really enormous. The same condition of things exists here in a lesser degree. The very activity now existing and which must continue to exist in a constantly increasing ratio must at no distant date render abstracts of titles enormously expensive.

OUR SYSTEM SENSELESS.

There is no reason why a parcel of land should not be disposed of in open market with the same facility as a share of stock, a commercial note or a bank check. But if anyone entertains an idea that such is the case he is in error. Day after day the records of the courts are filled with actions to remove a cloud from the title to some piece of property or other. As a rule the small, insignificant cloud that the attorney attempted to dispel magnifies its proportions until the firmament of title is hopelessly obscured.

NOT A NEW SYSTEM.

The so called Torrens system is not altogether a new one. A like registry and transfer has been in use for over a century in Prussia, in Bavaria and other European states. Hamburg, which until lately was one of the free cities of Germany, has maintained something of the kind for over 600 years. Paris has a system of insuring titles on the payment of a small fee.

The Torrens system, as it is now generally termed, was introduced in South Australia in 1858 at the instance of Sir Robert R. Torrens. This gentleman had gained a good deal of experience in the customs departments in passing the indefeasible titles to ships by a registry. When he entered upon his duties in Australia, his attention was called to the growing complexity in the system of land tenure, which was then conducted in the English fashion, under the law of primogeniture.

He conceived the idea of establishing a system of surrendering all deeds to land, complete with a registry of title by the state, in a manner corresponding to the sale and registry of titles to ships.

This system has been in operation throughout Australia and New Zealand for many years, and has been more recently introduced in British Columbia. Nothing but the most favorable reports are heard of it where it has been long in use. There is little doubt that several of the states of our Union will give it a trial before long. The Illinois legislature has the matter under consideration on a majority report of its investigating committee favorable to the change.

METHOD OF PROCEDURE.

The method of procedure under the real property act in Australia is thus described by Edward Atkinson:

"The person or persons in whom the fee is claimed to be vested may apply to have the land placed on the registry of titles; these applications, together with the deeds, evidences and abstracts of title, accompanied by plans of the land, are submitted for examination to a barrister and to a conveyancer, who are styled examiners of titles, who examine the titles exactly as they would on behalf of an intending purchaser. The report of the examiners is made to the registrar. If the title is a good holding title, the application is admitted. Should the applicant fail to satisfy the examiners it is rejected.

"Regular processes of clearing up defects of title through the courts are provided, as with us.

"The certificates of title on registered lands are issued in duplicate. These certificates set forth the nature of the estate of the applicant, whether a fee simple or a limited ownership; they notify, by memorials indorsed, all lesser estates, leases, charges, easements, rights or other interests current or affecting the land at the time. Ample space is left for the indorsement of subsequent memorials recording the transfer or extinction of future estates or interests."

ABSOLUTE TITLE.

The holder of such a certificate has an absolute, indefensible title as set forth, guaranteed by the state. To make the state safe on this guarantee a small charge is made on the registry of the land (amounting to one-fifth or one-tenth of 1 per cent, according to amount), and also when it is transferred by will or probate proceedings. A large insurance fund is thus accumulated. If it develops in after years that some rightful claimant has been debarred by reason of the registry, the state makes good to him the value of his rights at the time of registry.

It is a strong testimonial to the accuracy of the system, however, that the registrar of New South Wales reported in 1881 that, although the real property act had been in operation eighteen years, no compensation had been made upon the titles registered, nor had any claim been sustained against the assurance fund which, at that time, amounted to a little over £88,000. At the close of 1889 the assurance fund of South Australia had accumulated until it amounted to £82,000.

SIMPLE PROCESSES.

All the processes of conveying title, mortgaging and discharging mortgages are greatly simplified and cheapened. In Mr. Franklyn's work entitled "A Glance at Australia in 1880," he says:

The government guarantees an indefeasible title; and all transactions relating to land are so expeditiously and cheaply effected that in the year ending June 30, 1879, the cost of each of the 17,422 registration sales and mortgages, covering property to the value of £7,585,422, was only 22s. 9d. * * * Land can be dealt with as easily as a share in ship or a joint stock company, and with the same security as regards title.

In 1879 Sir Arthur Blyth, agent general of South Australia, testified before a committee of the house of parliament as follows:

Registration of title is almost universal; for one transaction under deeds now there are 1000 under the Real Property act; it is a curiosity if you get a person with deeds. To a person wanting to borrow money of me, I should say, "Real Property act, I suppose?" Then the next thing would be, "You do not want a lawyer, I suppose?" He would probably say, "No." I should then say, "Come with me to the registry office; you have got your certificate with you?"

I should draw out a mortgage on the counter at the registry office, where printed forms have been provided, have it witnessed and handed to the clerk, saying to him, "It will be ready tomorrow afternoon, I suppose." When the mortgage is paid off it is even simpler. Suppose you were the mortgagor and I were the mortgagee. Before you give me the money I should sign the receipt before a well known person and give it to you and let you go and clear your title."

THE CHANGE NEEDED.

Every business man in Fresno can see that such a system in vogue an immense amount of business could be dispatched which cannot be transacted at all on account of the difficulty in securing abstracts at proper time or satisfactory in character.

This system would transfer the abstractors from their private offices into government positions and increase the volume of business to an enormous degree. It would enable borrowers to obtain loans in hours where now months are involved. There is no doubt about its great value since it is based on common sense plan in simplicity itself, and insures the title of your property beyond question of any kind. It is to be hoped that the report of this commission will be favorable to the method, and that it shall become the law of the state.

SOME QUESTIONS.

WHY HAVE LARGE GROWERS RECEIVED BETTER PRICES?

A Raisin Producer Who Lost Faith in the Ability of Commission Packers.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN.—I want to know why a few raisin growers received a satisfactory price for their raisins from the commission packers, while the majority of the raisin growers, whose raisins were just as good and the same grade, are loud in their complaint for not having received a satisfactory price for the same?

I also want to know if it was the co-operative packer or his broker, or the commission packer or his broker, who broke the raisin price last year and thereby demoralized the raisin market in the east and in this state?

I did not consign any raisins to the commission packer, therefore I ask for the above information.

I consigned to a commission packer and shipper some green grapes for which I received "nary cent," therefore I kept shy of the commission serpent for fear of getting bit the second time.

The commission packer is repeating his last year's five minutes' dissertion commission sermons in the raisin growers' meetings, to explain and demonstrate to the raisin growers that their financial salvation can in no other way be obtained than via the commission packer, broker and jobber.

The last two years' experience has plainly and fully demonstrated the financial fact, beyond all doubt, that the commission business of selling raisins is the financial ruin of the industry and of those engaged in the same, except of a few unstodon raisin producing souls. The devout commission packer will find it a perplexing and difficult task and an uphill job, to convince and convert the raisin growers to his commission dogma after two years' experience, while the majority have been mortally wounded, financially, by the commission dragon.

There is evidently something rotten—not in transatlantic Denmark, but in the raisin center of California—when a few influential, wealthy and large raisin growers receive good prices at the expense of the many. ADAM BEAVER.

SPECIAL SERVICE

For the High School Graduating Class.

A SERMON FOR ITS BENEFIT

Pastor Collins of the Congregational Church Gives Some Sound Advice.

The seating capacity of the First Congregational church was taxed last Sunday morning, the occasion being that of a special service for the graduating class of the high school.

The pastor, J. H. Collins, occupied the pulpit, and the choir loft was filled by a large chorus. After the preliminary exercises, the pastor took for his text the last clause of Eccl. 11:9: "But know thou that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment."

He said in substance: While I have selected a text referring to the judgment, I do not mean to preach you a sermon upon hell or its fear. If in your high school work you have not yet learned to be actuated by what is right and your love for the right, the efforts of your parents and teachers have largely been wasted.

You occupy a conspicuous position in this city.

Words expressive alike of commendation of the past, and hopefulness of the future, are being spoken concerning you. During the years past you have had peculiar opportunities, and know thou that for all these opportunities God will bring thee into judgment.

We are not all to be judged by the same standard. From the one to whom God has given five talents He will not require as much as He will from the one to whom he has given ten, but he will require more from him than from the person to whom He has given but one. All other things being equal, God will expect more of you than of young people who have not had similar opportunities. Class of '93, I greet you, as you stand at the threshold of life! God has a work for each of you to do.

All work worthy of your effort, or the application of your life is God's work. I do not mean that you should study for the ministry, for God has other work—and much of it—to be done. If you accept the profession of law or medicine or teaching, you may honor God and do his work. I wish to make a few suggestions to you, because I want you to make the most of life and I want the world to have the benefit of all that you can do.

First, if you would meet the responsibilities of life you must have an aim; something toward the accomplishment of which you are to direct your effort and consecrate your life. Study yourselves; study the world and its needs. Pick out the work you want to do, or the place you want to fill; but know while you are making this study that God will call you into judgment for the aim or standard after which you are to strive just as surely as He will call you into judgment for the conduct displayed in striving.

One great curse of society, as it now exists, is that so many young men and women are aimless and standardless in the world. Have an aim, and let it be a grand and noble aim. Secondly, I would have you impress your determination to reach that aim upon socity.

No laudable standard can be reached without that determination, and this is a quality or trait of character which we may cultivate or develop. I know of nothing in life more needful, and God will surely call every member of this class into judgment for the determination shown in striving to fill a noble place in the world's work in striving to reach the aim or standard taken at the entrance of its busy activities.

If you have the proper determination it will lead you to my third suggestion, namely, that you must be willing to make personal sacrifices. Life, after a standard so high and noble as to call out and develop a strong and determined manhood or womanhood, cannot be lived without personal sacrifice. And such sacrifices are apt to be the stepping stones on which we reach our aim or standard. In your High school work you have had to refuse many invitations to give time and attention to things and places which might have given you pleasure in order that you should reach your standard and graduate this year. As you have learned to make sacrifices so you will need to continue as you enter the real work of life.

Nor is this all for which you will be brought into judgment. As you journey on in life you cannot help but come in contact with other people, nor can you help but effect their lives in some manner.

In all your dealings those around have a right to expect kindness and sympathy, and God will bring you into judgment if you fail in this regard. A kind, sympathetic word will cost you nothing, and who knows what it may be worth to some struggling, tempted one. There is no calling in life worthy your consideration in which you shall not be called upon to display love and tenderness toward those who are less fortunate than yourselves. God's voice may be heard in the cry of the poor and distressed, and "he best serves God who serves his fellow-men" in Christ's love and name. In all the work of life do not fail so be kind and considerate to those about you, and remember that for all the opportunities of life which you are now beginning God will bring you to judgment.

The sermon was listened to very attentively by the large crowd, and especially by the class of '93.

All persons having claims against the Young Mens' Christian Association will please present them within 30 days from this date to F. J. Haber, at 1050 J street with proper vouchers, as the property of the Y.M.C.A. has been transferred to the Lyceum Co. of Fresno, and all claims will be paid in stock of said Lyceum Co., if presented within said date. 40 YEARS OF PAIN CURED.

THE CASE.

N. ALBANY ST., ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1881.

For over 40 years I have been a victim of rheumatism. I was persuaded to try St. Jacobs Oil. I have used two bottles, and a man more free from rheumatism never walked our streets. My limbs that were once stiff and lame are now as light and limber as in my youth.

JOS. EDSELL.

AFTER FIVE YEARS.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 5, 1887.

Suffered many years—injury to hip resulting in rheumatism, muscular weakness and contracted cords. Two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil relieved me so that I now walk about and attend to daily duties at 62. I heartily endorse it.

JOS. EDSELL.

THE '93 MARKET.

GOOD PRICES COME TO HIM THAT WAITS.

So Says William Harvey, ex-Secretary of the Raisin Growers' Association.

"What are the prospects for the raisin market for 1893?" was asked by a reporter last night of William Harvey, ex-secretary of the late California State Raisin Growers' Association.

"Growers are looking forward with considerable interest to the result of the meeting of the co-operative raisin packing companies, which will be held at 1158 I street next Friday at 2 p.m," replied Mr. Harvey. "Upon the action of these companies will depend in a great measure the condition of the market of 1893."

Mr. Harvey went into a history of the markets of 1891, 1892 and 1893, a history which is sadly familiar to every Fresno raisin grower.

"On or about the first of last January," continued Mr. Harvey, "the very firm that had broken down prices advertised in the local press that they had made a corner on raisins by buying up all the remaining raisins in the state, and they generously proposed to give their customers the benefit of the corner; but unfortunately the growers' raisins had nearly all been sold, and the few car loads remaining on hand cut no figure; so that the commission packers, by the aid of their brokers, broke the prices at which the growers' raisins were sold, and when they were all gone they took advantage of the low prices which they themselves had made to buy up all the unsold raisins in the state. Prices immediately went up 50 per cent. To-day you cannot buy good raisins in the east for less than 10 and 15 cents per pound.

"The Producers' Packing Company have within this week sold a carload of the 1891 pack at $1.50 per box in Chicago. This is at the rate of 7½ cents per pound. Deduct one and a half cents per pound for freight that leaves 6 cents net.

"All those growers who now hold their raisins can get good prices. Surely this is an object lesson for the grower."

"What would you propose to do?" was asked.

"I would suggest that the growers organize say 75 per cent of the whole and request the banks of the town to finance the raisin market. Then an exchange should be established, of which all the co-operative companies should be members. As soon as the raisins are delivered at the packing house they shall be stored in bond to the banks. The packing houses will issue to the grower a receipt for so many pounds or tons of each grade of raisins, which receipt he can take to the banks, who will act as a unit in the matter, and will pay about 75 per cent of the value of his raisins immediately on delivery."

Dunwoody's Moonshine Fort.

Your correspondent talked with a United States marshal today who told of a moonshine still located in Walker county that has been running for years and has made thousands of gallons of moonshine liquor, and it cannot be captured by officers, it makes no difference how many attempt it. The fact is the officers cannot get within two miles of the still.

The still, he says, belongs to a man named Dunwoody and is almost impervious to attack. It is located in a most mountainous region of north Georgia, and is only reached by a narrow path leading through huge ledges of rocks known only to the operatives of the still. The still is in an isolated cave, which is surrounded by mountains of rocks.

The old log still is inclosed by a high rock wall, built like a fort, with portholes in the same. Weapons and ammunition are kept within, so that one man could defend himself against the attacks of a dozen. To guard against surprise the owner has cleared the timber away for 100 yards around, so that no one can approach without being seen by some of the laborers.

This still has been running for years, and neither United States marshal nor revenue collector has ever attempted to cross these rocks to capture old Dunwoody and his men. Raids are made every day or so around these mountains, and some good hauls are made, but Dunwoody, so my informant says, is never bothered. The revenue officer, on being asked if he ever expected to attack Dunwoody, shook his head and said nothing. —Atlanta Constitution.

Beaver Trapping in Washington.

Trapping beaver in Walla Walla county is generally supposed to be a thing of the past. Yet on the lower Louchet, 18 miles above the mouth of the Walla Walla river, the largest village of beaver discovered for many a year is in existence. An old trapper saw their sign by acres of willow brush and trees being cut down by those intelligent animals to form their dams, and in a short time he caught over 20, one of them weighing 60 pounds, the largest he ever knew of. The water in the village is fully 40 feet deep, and the dam is near the big slide where the water has washed in the bank, forming a cave. Trapping beaver was formerly a paying business, but they became so scarce that it was given up. Now by having been unmolested for so many years they have increased wonderfully. The site of the discovery was where the old Hudson bay trappers formerly caught immense quantities, and several old dams are yet to be seen in the same vicinity.—Walla Walla Statesman.

Signalling by Flashing Lights.

The unfavorable impression caused in navy circles abroad by the failure of flashing incandescent lights to meet all the requirements of a clear and rapid system of signaling has been greatly modified by the introduction of a new device. It was formerly found that flashes could not be made with the necessary rapidity, owing to the fact that light lingers in the carbon. In the new flash lamps, a number of which are being supplied to several English battleships, a spring cover hides and reveals the light, being worked by a flexible spring by hand, and enabling signals of practically any degree of rapidity and of the utmost distinctness to be sent.

The lamps are of about 160-candle power and are worked at the masthead by electric wires from the deck. From experiments made with the new device it appears that the direct flashing of high power incandescent lamps for signaling purposes is likely to be eventually superseded by some dark cover arrangement.—Exchange.

Dandruff For Ten Years.

April 29, 1893.

MESSRS. SMITH BROS., FRESNO, Cal.

Gentlemen—After using one bottle of Smith's Dandruff Pomade, I am pleased to state that I am entirely cured of dandruff, with which I was troubled for ten years. I have paid out dollar after dollar for remedies recommended to me, but without any permanent effect, and your remedy is the only one that has perfected a cure. I found more benefit from three applications of your remedy than all others combined. I cheerfully recommend it to all having trouble with dandruff, regardless of how many years standing. Yours truly, Money Well Spent.

It has cost the state of Massachusetts more than $10,000 to carry on the work of the board of arbitration and conciliation during the past year, but even with the partial success attained in averting strikes and settling disputes between employers and workmen this may be called money well spent. If there were nothing more gained than the illustration of how these differences can be settled without open warfare, it would be worth all this and much more.

Indeed there is little doubt that many times the cost of the arbitration has been saved to industry by the prevention of strikes and lockouts. The acceptance of arbitration is coming slowly, but it is surely coming, and the day is not far distant when it will be made obligatory, and willingly so, upon all those who hold the relation of workmen and employers.—Boston Commonwealth.

No More Stamping Tickets.

The Pennsylvania company is about to discard the old method of stamping tickets with ink, and will now punch the the year and day clear through the ticket by means of powerful stencils. This is done to keep scalpers and others from altering the date and thus extending the limit of mileage books and excursion tickets.

When one thinks of the thousands of special excursion tickets sold on July 4 and other occasions, the work devolving upon the agent may be imagined. A peculiar feature is that the month does not appear. Everything is reckoned in the days of the year—20th, 43d or 251st, as the case may be. Following the day stamp is the final figure of the year, 3, which will remain until next January.—New York Letter.

No Boccaccian House For the Queen.

The Villa Palmieri, which the Queen will occupy during her visit to Florence, is not the villa where Boccaccio's ladies assembled to tell their tales. The real locality of the latter is behind the town of Fiesole. It is, however, very likely that Boccaccio himself did live for a time at the Villa Palmieri, which is a long, low, white structure in the Italian style. It is situated on elevated ground, commanding a fine view of Florence and the plain of the Arno. The gardens are very fine and abound with flowers.—Pall Mall Gazette.

USEFUL BOOKS FREE

Subscribers to The Republican (Daily or Weekly) May Secure a Copy of Either

"The Ladies' Own Cook Book"

—OR—

"Our Family Physician"

By sending to this office the name of a new subscriber to either daily or weekly with pay for first month for daily (sixty cents) or three months seventy-five cents) for weekly.

These books are, either of them, worth many times the price of the paper, but are given away so as to increase the already large circulation of THE FRESNO MORNING REPUBLICAN and FRESNO WEEKLY REPUBLICAN.

The books are well and substantially bound, clearly printed, and are highly useful in the household.

"Our Family Physician"

Is a standard work, over 100,000 copies having been printed and sold. It was compiled and edited by H. R. Stout, M. D., a physician of more than national reputation. It is a plain, practical and reliable guide to the detection and treatment of all the diseases common to the country. Designed for use by people who have not made the practice of medicine a study or a business and who are not supposed to be familiar with technical phrases and names, but want information stated in plain English. Gives separately with every disease the treatment prescribed by each "school" and full and explicit directions for nursing the sick, preparation of food for the sick, etc.

To know when to go after a doctor is an important thing. Nine times out of ten calling one is a useless expense, while failing to call one at the proper time may cost a life. This book contains 640 pages, bound in cloth, making an ornamental, as well as useful, addition to any library.

"The Ladies' Own Cook Book"

Is a practical and economical guide to cooking, canning, curing and preserving. Including also a chapter on confectionery, showing how to make all kinds of candies, ice cream, etc., by MRS. JANE WARREN.

This book is a standard authority on cooking. It is very tastefully printed and bound in oilcloth.

A copy of either of these valuable books will be presented to any subscriber of THE REPUBLICAN, according to the terms set forth above.
